Creative Writing - Writing Your Way

Starts Tuesday 20th September

10am – 12noon every Tuesday morning for 6 weeks

Venue – Online (Zoom)

Suitable for adults (16+) living in Fife

About the course

Writing is an excellent way to affirm and reconnect with yourself in today's often-too-busy world, enabling you to unlock the unique worlds that only you can bring to life. This eight-week course is a chance to try out various types of writing – including fiction, poetry, personal writing, and more – and find out how you're most comfortable expressing your creativity. We'll encourage each other to develop our voices, grow our inspiration, and build the skills to say what we really want to say. No prior experience required! Free to join!

About the tutor

This course is taught by writer and critic Kelly Kanayama. Kelly holds an MA with Distinction in Creative Writing (Poetry) and a PhD in English Literature, and is the Communications and Editorial Manager for the Scottish BPOC Writers Network. Her work has been published in the award-winning Lighthouse Literary Journal, Room Magazine, Gists and Piths, and Ink Sweat & Tears, among others.
